FINAL ORDER

The appellant has filed a petition for review in this case asking us to reconsider the initial decision issued by the administrative judge. We grant petitions such as this one only when significant new evidence is presented to us that was not available for consideration earlier or when the administrative judge

* A nonprecedential order is one that the Board has determined does not add significantly to the body of MSPB case law. Parties may cite nonprecedential orders, but such orders have no precedential value; the Board and administrative judges are not required to follow or distinguish them in any future decisions. In contrast, a precedential decision issued as an Opinion and Order has been identified by the Board as significantly contributing to the Board's case law. See 5 C.F.R. § 1201.117\(c\).

made an error interpreting a law or regulation. The regulation that establishes this standard of review is found in Title 5 of the Code of Federal Regulations, section 1201.115 (5 C.F.R. § 1201.115).

In his petition for review, the appellant challenges the initial decision dismissing his appeal for lack of jurisdiction. The appellant argues that he was always told that he was a preference eligible, and that a Postal Service (PS) Form 50 in the record reflects, among other things, a number “1” on line 11 for “Veterans Preference.” The appellant has not, however, alleged or submitted any evidence supporting his apparent claim that the number “1” on the “Veterans Preference” line of his PS Form 50 means that he is entitled to veterans’ preference. In fact, as a comparison, we note that the appropriate code for “None” or no veterans’ preference on a Standard Form 52 or 50 is “1.” See Guide to Processing Personnel Actions, Chapter 7, Instructions for Documenting Veterans’ Preference on the Standard Form 52/50, available at <http://www.opm.gov/feddata/gppa/gppa.asp>. The appellant also notes on review that he called the Veterans Administration and learned that he was not a preference eligible. The administrative judge thoroughly addressed these issues in the initial decision and we discern no reason to disturb those well-reasoned findings. See Crosby v. U.S. Postal Service, 74 M.S.P.R. 98, 106 (1997) (stating that there is no reason to disturb the initial decision when the administrative judge considered the evidence as a whole, drew appropriate inferences, and made reasoned conclusions); Broughton v. Department of Health & Human Services, 33 M.S.P.R. 357, 359 (1987) (same).

Regarding the appellant’s request that the Board forward this case to two federal agencies for investigation, he has not cited to any provision that would authorize the Board to do so under the circumstances of this case.

After fully considering the filings in this appeal, we conclude that there is no new, previously unavailable, evidence and that the administrative judge made no error in law or regulation that affects the outcome. 5 C.F.R. § 1201.115(d).

Therefore, we DENY the petition for review. Except as modified by this Final Order, the initial decision of the administrative judge is the Board's final decision.
