THIS FINAL ORDER IS NONPRECEDENTIAL¹

FINAL ORDER

The appellant has filed a petition for review of the initial decision, which sustained the final decision of the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) dismissing the appellant's request for reconsideration as untimely. Generally, we grant petitions such as this one only in the following circumstances: the initial decision contains erroneous findings of material fact; the initial decision is based on an erroneous interpretation of statute or regulation or the erroneous application of the law to the facts of the case; the administrative judge's rulings during either the course of the appeal or the initial decision were not consistent with required procedures or involved an abuse of discretion, and the resulting error affected the outcome of the case; or new and material evidence or legal argument is available that, despite the petitioner's due diligence, was not available when the record closed. Title 5 of the Code of Federal Regulations, section 1201.115 (5 C.F.R. § 1201.115). After fully considering the filings in this appeal, we conclude that the petitioner has not established any basis under section 1201.115 for granting the petition for review. Therefore, we DENY the petition for review and AFFIRM the initial decision, which is now the Board's final decision. 5 C.F.R. § 1201.113(b).

The appellant's reply to the agency's opposition to his petition for review contains the entirety of his arguments on review, which are outside the scope of the factual and legal issues raised by the agency's opposition. Petition for Review (PFR) File, Tab 9; see 5 C.F.R. § 1201.114(a)(4) (providing that a reply to a response to a petition for review is limited to the factual and legal issues raised by another party in the response to the petition for review; it may not raise new allegations of error). Even if we were to consider the arguments that the appellant has raised in his reply, the appellant has not shown that the administrative judge erred in sustaining OPM's dismissal of the appellant's request for reconsideration as untimely. On review, the appellant argues that: (1) the signed certified mail receipt that OPM submitted to show that the appellant received OPM's July 1, 1991 initial decision denying his application for disability retirement does not prove that the envelope contained the initial decision; (2) OPM treated him unfairly by requiring him to file a request for reconsideration of the initial decision; and (3) his medical conditions prevented him from timely filing a request for reconsideration.² PFR File, Tab 9 at 5. Upon consideration of the appellant's arguments and review of the record evidence, we conclude that the appellant's arguments do not show error in the administrative judge's findings that the appellant's request for reconsideration was untimely filed by approximately 25 years and that the appellant did not show that he was not notified of the time limit to file a request for reconsideration, and was not otherwise aware of it, or that he was prevented by circumstances beyond his control from making the request within the time limit. Initial Appeal File, Tab 27 at 3-6; see Cerezo v. Office of Personnel Management, 94 M.S.P.R. 81, ¶ 7 (2003) (providing that OPM has discretion to extend the time limit for filing a request for reconsideration but only when the individual shows that he was not notified of the time limit and was not otherwise aware of it or that he was prevented by circumstances beyond his control from making the request within the time limit); 5 C.F.R. § 831.109(e)(2). Accordingly, we affirm the initial decision.

NOTICE OF APPEAL RIGHTS³

You may obtain review of this final decision. 5 U.S.C. § 7703(a)(1). By statute, the nature of your claims determines the time limit for seeking such review and the appropriate forum with which to file. 5 U.S.C. § 7703(b). Although we offer the following summary of available appeal rights, the Merit Systems Protection Board does not provide legal advice on which option is most ² The appellant also submitted documentary evidence in support of his reply to the agency's opposition to his petition for review. PFR File, Tab 9. Each document the appellant has submitted is contained in the record below except for an article entitled "Cognitive Impairment in Depression," which we decline to consider, as the appellant has not shown that the article was unavailable before the record closed despite his due diligence. Initial Appeal File, Tab 22; PFR File, Tab 9 at 21-24; see Avansino v. U.S. Postal Service, 3 M.S.P.R. 211, 214 (1980) (providing that, under 5 C.F.R. § 1201.115, the Board generally will not consider evidence submitted for the first time with the petition for review absent a showing that it was unavailable before the record was closed despite the party's due diligence).

³ Since the issuance of the initial decision in this matter, the Board may have updated the notice of review rights included in final decisions. As indicated in the notice, the Board cannot advise which option is most appropriate in any matter.
