¹ A nonprecedential order is one that the Board has determined does not add significantly to the body of MSPB case law. Parties may cite nonprecedential orders, but such orders have no precedential value; the Board and administrative judges are not required to follow or distinguish them in any future decisions. In contrast, a precedential decision issued as an Opinion and Order has been identified by the Board as significantly contributing to the Board's case law. See 5 C.F.R. § 1201.117(c).

FINAL ORDER

The appellant has filed a petition for review of the initial decision, which dismissed her individual right of action (IRA) appeal as untimely filed with no basis to equitably toll the deadline. On petition for review, the appellant argues that the administrative judge erred in limiting her consideration of the appellant's medical condition to her hospitalization in October 2023 because the appellant has suffered these conditions since at least 2018. She also argues that increased commuting and travel times that resulted from an involuntary relocation and her limited English writing capabilities prevented her from filing her appeal on time. Generally, we grant petitions such as this one only in the following circumstances: the initial decision contains erroneous findings of material fact; the initial decision is based on an erroneous interpretation of statute or regulation or the erroneous application of the law to the facts of the case; the administrative judge's rulings during either the course of the appeal or the initial decision were not consistent with required procedures or involved an abuse of discretion, and the resulting error affected the outcome of the case; or new and material evidence or legal argument is available that, despite the petitioner's due diligence, was not available when the record closed. Title 5 of the Code of Federal Regulations, section 1201.115 (5 C.F.R. § 1201.115). After fully considering the filings in this appeal, we conclude that the petitioner has not established any basis under section 1201.115 for granting the petition for review. Therefore, we DENY the petition for review and AFFIRM the initial decision, which is now the Board's final decision. 5 C.F.R. § 1201.113(b).

The appellant submitted over 300 pages of documents on review, which she appears to be claiming are documents missing from the Board's e-Appeal system. Petition for Review (PFR) File, Tabs 1-2. As noted above, the Board will not consider evidence submitted for the first time with the petition for review absent a showing that it was unavailable before the record was closed despite the party's due diligence. Avansino v. U.S. Postal Service, 3 M.S.P.R. 211, 214 (1980).

By waiting until filing her petition for review to submit or resubmit this allegedly missing documentation, the appellant has not shown due diligence here. Therefore, we decline to consider this documentation further.

On April 15, 2024, the appellant filed a motion for leave to file a reply to the agency's response to her petition for review. Petition for Review (PFR) File, Tab 8. We deny this motion. The Board's regulations provide 10 days to file a reply after the date of service of the agency's response. 5 C.F.R. § 1201.114(e). The Office of the Clerk of the Board clearly informed the appellant of the deadline for filing a reply to a response to a petition for review. PFR File, Tab 3 at 1-2. The agency's response to the petition for review was filed on February 14, 2024. PFR File, Tab 8. Because February 24, 2024, was a Saturday, the appellant's reply was due on February 26, 2024, the first workday after that date. 5 C.F.R. § 1201.23(a). It is undisputed that the appellant did not file a timely reply.

To establish good cause for an untimely filing, a party must show that she exercised due diligence or ordinary prudence under the particular circumstances of the case. Alonzo v. Department of the Air Force, 4 M.S.P.R. 180, 184 (1980). Here, the appellant alleges that she contacted the Board between February 19 and 23, 2024, and "asked [a] Board representative if she should respond" to the agency's response to her petition for review. PFR File, Tab 8 at 4. According to the appellant, the representative told the appellant that "she could supplement documentation at any time and to be patient since her case was on backlog." Id. We acknowledge the appellant's pro se status. However, neither her question as to the value of submitting a response nor the answer she alleges she received regarding the submission of "documentation" address the deadline for submitting her reply. Therefore, she has not shown that she exercised due diligence or ordinary prudence by failing to seek an extension to reply until 7 weeks after the deadline. Accordingly, we deny the appellant's motion.

NOTICE OF APPEAL RIGHTS²

You may obtain review of this final decision. 5 U.S.C. § 7703(a)(1). By statute, the nature of your claims determines the time limit for seeking such review and the appropriate forum with which to file. 5 U.S.C. § 7703(b). Although we offer the following summary of available appeal rights, the Merit Systems Protection Board does not provide legal advice on which option is most appropriate for your situation and the rights described below do not represent a statement of how courts will rule regarding which cases fall within their jurisdiction. If you wish to seek review of this final decision, you should immediately review the law applicable to your claims and carefully follow all filing time limits and requirements. Failure to file within the applicable time limit may result in the dismissal of your case by your chosen forum.

Please read carefully each of the three main possible choices of review below to decide which one applies to your particular case. If you have questions about whether a particular forum is the appropriate one to review your case, you should contact that forum for more information.

(1) Judicial review in general. As a general rule, an appellant seeking judicial review of a final Board order must file a petition for review with the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, which must be received by the court within 60 calendar days of the date of issuance of this decision. 5 U.S.C. § 7703(b)(1)(A).

² Since the issuance of the initial decision in this matter, the Board may have updated the notice of review rights included in final decisions. As indicated in the notice, the Board cannot advise which option is most appropriate in any matter.

If you submit a petition for review to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, you must submit your petition to the court at the following address:

U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit

This option applies to you only if you have claimed that you were affected by an action that is appealable to the Board and that such action was based, in whole or in part, on unlawful discrimination. If so, you may obtain judicial review of this decision—including a disposition of your discrimination claims—by filing a civil action with an appropriate U.S. district court (not the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit), within 30 calendar days after you receive this decision. 5 U.S.C. § 7703(b)(2); see Perry v. Merit Systems Protection Board, 582 U.S. 420 (2017). If you have a representative in this case, and your representative receives this decision before you do, then you must file with the district court no later than 30 calendar days after your representative receives this decision. If the action involves a claim of discrimination based on race, color, religion, sex, national origin, or a disabling condition, you may be entitled to representation by a court-appointed lawyer and to waiver of any requirement of prepayment of fees, costs, or other security. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f) and 29 U.S.C. § 794a.

You must file any such request with the EEOC's Office of Federal Operations within 30 calendar days after you receive this decision. 5 U.S.C. § 7702(b)(1). If you have a representative in this case, and your representative receives this decision before you do, then you must file with the EEOC no later than 30 calendar days after your representative receives this decision.

other protected activities listed in 5 U.S.C. § 2302(b)(9)(A)(i), (B), (C), or (D). If so, and your judicial petition for review “raises no challenge to the Board’s disposition of allegations of a prohibited personnel practice described in section 2302(b) other than practices described in section 2302(b)(8), or 2302(b)(9)(A)(i), (B), (C), or (D),” then you may file a petition for judicial review either with the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit or any court of appeals of competent jurisdiction.³ The court of appeals must receive your petition for review within 60 days of the date of issuance of this decision. 5 U.S.C. § 7703(b)(1)(B).
