THIS FINAL ORDER IS NONPRECEDENTIAL¹

Vernita D. Boyd, Wheeling, Illinois, pro se.

FINAL ORDER

The appellant has filed a petition for review of the initial decision, which dismissed her initial appeal as untimely filed without good cause shown. On petition for review, the appellant reiterates identical arguments raised, and addressed below, and fails to identify any errors made by the administrative judge. Generally, we grant petitions such as this one only in the following circumstances: the initial decision contains erroneous findings of material fact; the initial decision is based on an erroneous interpretation of statute or regulation or the erroneous application of the law to the facts of the case; the administrative judge's rulings during either the course of the appeal or the initial decision were not consistent with required procedures or involved an abuse of discretion, and the resulting error affected the outcome of the case; or new and material evidence or legal argument is available that, despite the petitioner's due diligence, was not available when the record closed. Title 5 of the Code of Federal Regulations, section 1201.115 (5 C.F.R. § 1201.115). After fully considering the filings in this appeal, we conclude that the petitioner has not established any basis under section 1201.115 for granting the petition for review. Therefore, we DENY the petition for review. Except as expressly MODIFIED to find that the administrative judge's erroneous calculation of the length of the appellant's untimeliness was harmless, we AFFIRM the initial decision, which is now the Board's final decision. 5 C.F.R. § 1201.113(b).

With exceptions not applicable here, the deadline for filing an appeal is 30 days after the effective date, if any, of the action being appealed, or 30 days after the date of the appellant's receipt of the agency's decision, whichever is later. 5 C.F.R. § 1201.22(b)(1). The appellant has the burden of proving the timeliness of her Board appeal by a preponderance of the evidence. 5 C.F.R. § 1201.56(b)(2)(i)(B).

The record contains two final decisions by the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) denying the appellant's application for an annuity under the Federal Employee's Retirement System, dated August 31, 2018, and October 11, 2018, respectively. Initial Appeal File (IAF), Tab 1 at 9-10, Tab 7 at 7-8. The appellant claimed that she received OPM's final decision on October 11, 2018. IAF, Tab 1 at 4. Even assuming this was the first time the appellant received OPM's final decision, her appeal would nonetheless be due on November 13, 2018, thirty days from its receipt after accounting for the weekend and Veteran's Day holiday, which fell on November 12, 2018. 5 C.F.R. § 1201.22(b)(1); see 5 C.F.R. § 1201.23 (explaining that if a filing deadline falls on a weekend or holiday, the deadline is extended to the following workday). The appellant filed her appeal by mail on December 31, 2018. IAF, Tab 1 at 11. It appears that she separately faxed a copy of OPM's final decision to the regional office in early February 2019. Id. at 8-11. In the initial decision, the administrative judge found that the appellant filed her appeal by facsimile on February 7, 2019, and thus, factoring in the partial Government shutdown of 2018-19, her appeal was untimely by 55 days. IAF, Tab 8, Initial Decision at 2. This calculation was erroneous because it failed to recognize that the appellant mailed her appeal on December 31, 2018. IAF, Tab 1 at 11; see Williams v. U.S. Postal Service, 61 M.S.P.R. 213, 215 (1994) (finding that the Board considers the postmark date to be the date of filing of a mailed submission); 5 C.F.R. § 1201(l) (stating the same rule). Correcting this error to reflect that the appellant filed her appeal on December 31, 2018, she nonetheless untimely filed her initial appeal by 41 days, after accounting for the partial Government shutdown and the Christmas holiday. Accordingly, the administrative judge's error was harmless. See Panter v. Department of the Air Force, 22 M.S.P.R. 281, 282 (1984) (finding an adjudicatory error which is not prejudicial to a party's substantive rights is no basis for reversal of the initial decision).

(1) Judicial review in general. As a general rule, an appellant seeking judicial review of a final Board order must file a petition for review with the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, which must be received by the court within 60 calendar days of the date of issuance of this decision. 5 U.S.C. § 7703(b)(1)(A).

If you submit a petition for review to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, you must submit your petition to the court at the following address:

U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit

(2) Judicial or EEOC review of cases involving a claim of discrimination. This option applies to you only if you have claimed that you were affected by an action that is appealable to the Board and that such action was based, in whole or in part, on unlawful discrimination. If so, you may obtain judicial review of this decision—including a disposition of your discrimination claims—by filing a civil action with an appropriate U.S. district court (not the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit), within 30 calendar days after you receive this decision. 5 U.S.C. § 7703(b)(2); see Perry v. Merit Systems Protection Board, 582 U.S. 420 (2017). If you have a representative in this case, and your representative receives this decision before you do, then you must file with the district court no later than 30 calendar days after your representative receives this decision. If the action involves a claim of discrimination based on race, color, religion, sex, national origin, or a disabling condition, you may be entitled to representation by a court-appointed lawyer and to waiver of any requirement of prepayment of fees, costs, or other security. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f) and 29 U.S.C. § 794a.

If so, and your judicial petition for review “raises no challenge to the Board’s disposition of allegations of a prohibited personnel practice described in section 2302(b) other than practices described in section 2302(b)(8), or 2302(b)(9)(A)(i), (B), (C), or (D),” then you may file a petition for judicial review either with the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit or any court of appeals of competent jurisdiction.³ The court of appeals must receive your petition for
