

To the extent discovery regulations are being addressed through the elimination of initial disclosures and the like, I suggest you include the requirement, similar to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(5), for a party to produce a privilege log when it asserts a privilege as the basis for withholding otherwise discoverable information. It will, as with the elimination of initial disclosures, cut down on needless discovery disputes.